

NATIONAL GUIDELINE
CLEARINGHOUSE

_____ (authorized individual name and title) on behalf of the guideline author/developer/owner(s), _____, hereby grant to AHRQ, and its agent(s), exclusively for NGC purposes, the following non-exclusive worldwide rights and licenses:

- 1. To copy and abstract _____'s (our organization's) clinical practice guidelines ("guidelines"), including detailed information about the guideline's development, and to place such abstract(s) on the NGC Web site.

Yes No (circle one)

Permission* is given for (circle all that apply):

- a. Guideline(s) titled _____ and dated _____ (attach additional sheets, as necessary, or refer to the NGC-specific attachment)
- b. All future published revisions/updates of the guideline(s) specified in (1a) that meet NGC's 2013 (revised) inclusion criteria.
- c. All guidelines by our organization published to date that meet NGC's 2013 (revised) inclusion criteria.
- d. All new guidelines to be published in the future (i.e., all guidelines from our organization that meet NGC's 2013 [revised] inclusion criteria)

- 2. To establish links from the NGC World Wide Web Site to your organization's Web site:

http://_____.

Yes No (circle one)

- 3. Unlimited and unrestricted rights to distribute the NGC abstracts of your organization's guidelines.*

Yes No (circle one)

*Guideline developers who agree to Item 3 will have NGC summary content of their guidelines made available for download from the NGC Web site. This option may be attractive to developer organizations interested in disseminating their clinical guidance to audiences less familiar with clinical practice guidelines or in supporting researchers of clinical practice and associated guidance. Audiences who have expressed interest in using NGC's summary content include medical publishers; medical software developers; academic researchers; and grant funders. Please note that neither AHRQ nor NGC is responsible for identifying the third parties that choose to download the summary content, nor how the content is used by such parties.

AHRQ and its agent(s) (ECRI Institute) agree to provide full credit to your organization as the author/developer/owner(s) of such clinical practice guidelines

AHRQ and its agent(s) (ECRI Institute) agree to inform NGC users about the terms governing downloading, use, and reproduction of these guidelines as set forth below or to refer them to your organization for such information as directed below:

Granting NGC permission to prepare structured summaries of your organization's guidelines (including, extending this permission to future revisions or to future guidelines that will be published by your organization) will NOT preclude your organization from reviewing NGC-developed content prior to its publication at the NGC Web site.

You agree to provide to ECRI Institute an unlocked full-text version of your organization's clinical practice guideline that has been accepted for inclusion in the NGC and that will be referenced or posted at the NGC Web site.

You represent and warrant that you are the author of the guidelines and owner of your Web site, or currently possess all rights necessary to grant the rights granted herein. You represent and warrant that your guidelines do not infringe any copyright, trademark or other proprietary right of any third party.

I/we, the signators of this license represent and warrant that I am/we are the author(s) of the guidelines and/or possess all rights necessary to grant the license rights above to AHRQ and its agents. I/we represent and warrant that the guidelines so licensed do not infringe any copyright, trademark or other proprietary right of any third party.

This agreement shall be effective as of the later date signed below and shall remain in force unless terminated by either party by giving prior written notice of not less than thirty (30) days.
